Algae-X Signs AER Supply as New Distributor

Partnership expanding AER's Product Line with Algae-X's Fuel Maintenance & Management Systems

Fort Myers, FL (August 24, 2007) – Algae-X today announced that AER Supply, based in Seabrook, Texas, has joined the ranks of Algae-X's Distribution network. AER Supply has a strong presence in a 14-state South Central US territory, built over 30 years. AER's exceptional reputation and reach into the Commercial Marine and Offshore market as well as the Recreational Marine market will expand Algae-X installations.

Richard Miller, Owner & Managing Director of AER Supply Ltd, spoke to the expected impact, "AER has always looked to meet the full range of needs for our customers. Algae-X allows us to complete our portfolio by attending to the critical fuel quality issues in this industry. We expect our clients to quickly adopt this technology based on the strong Return-On-Investment it delivers."

Algae-X CEO Wout Lisseveld commented, "Strong partnerships are essential to business success, and we are proud to add a Distributor with such respected credentials as AER Supply. They are highly integrated as a value-add partner into their client base and their recommendations carry great weight. The implementation of Algae-X Fuel Conditioning and Fuel Maintenance technology will have a positive impact on their clients' operational capabilities."

AER Supply stocks a broad range of Algae-X Fuel Conditioning and Management products for immediate delivery.
